Kangaroo and Friends Flying to the Moon

The Kangaroo lived with the Rooster, the Cuckoo and the Goose on a farm. They very often used to play an imaginary game of flying to the moon on their brooms. The Goose, the Cuckoo and the Rooster sometimes made fun of the Kangaroo because he was big and he looked strange to them. The Kangaroo also carried fruits in his pouch, and sometimes he drooled when he saw food. As his friends made fun of him he sometimes would get into a bad mood and sit alone by the moor. One day while the kangaroo was snoozing, a big mouse told the kangaroo that the Animal Control van was taking his friends away. The kangaroo immediately jumped on his hooves, trampling upon the wild mushrooms, ran to save his friends. Through the net he saw his friends. The goose sat gloomily in the corner of the van, the cuckoo was brooding and flapping his wings while the rooster's face was drooped. He hit the net with his sharp teeth. As the net loosened, the cuckoo flew out of the van and the goose with the rooster hopped out of the van as fast as they could. The friends ran towards the lagoon by the moor. The cuckoo, rooster and the goose thanked the kangaroo. They promised never to make fun of him again. Now all the friends go back to their favourite imaginary game of trying to fly to reach the moon oo oo oo oo oon.

Action: flap hands; try to fly to the moon and say moon oo oo oo oo oon.
